MORRISON AGAIN

Popular Player will again Head the Frederick Nine.

John Bruce Morrison, of Shippensburg, who has managed the Frederick base ball club for the past two years, will pilot the same team in the Blue Ridge League during the season of 1916.

Morrison will report between April 20 and May 1. His squad will report two weeks before the season opens which will be around the middle of May. Most of the men will be signed before the manager goes to Frederick.

Whether or not the pilot will be in the regular line-up this year is a matter of some conjecture. If the salary limit would permit, some of the directors would like to see Morrison oversee the game from the bench and act in the capacity of a pinch hitter.

Stitt, teacher.

MURDER TRIALS
FOR NEXT WEEK

Slayers of Two Farmers to be Confronted with Serious Charges. Both Said to have Confessed their Crimes.

Two murder trials will occupy the attention of Gettysburg and Adams County next week, one of them being tried here and the other in Westminster.

Oliver Sharrah, a prisoner in the Adams County jail since October 11th last, is charged with the death of Peter I. Deardorff at the Sharrah home above Cashtown on the night of October 10. Sharrah, it is said, admitted his guilt the day after the murder, and the reason alleged was the intimacy of Deardorff with Mrs. Sharrah.

It will be recalled that all three of the persons directly concerned were in Gettysburg for the Farmers' Day observance, that Deardorff went to the Sharrah home during the evening and that the men drank there together. Later, it is said, Deardorff failed to heed an admonition to leave and Sharrah shot him in the abdomen and then returned to bed. Deardorff lay along the side of the road all night attended only by Mrs. Sharrah and some neighbors until well on toward morning when a physician was secured. The injured man died about six o'clock in the morning after fixing the guilt on Sharrah.

There was no difficulty about putting the accused man under arrest and he was brought to jail on Sunday, the eleventh. A coroner's jury rendered a verdict that "Peter I. Deardorff" came to his death as the result of a gunshot wound inflicted at the hands of Oliver Sharrah," the grand jury returned a true bill at November term of Court and the case is said to be ready for trial.

District Attorney Topper will be assisted in the conduct of the case by John D. Keith Esq., while Sharrah will be represented by George J. Benner Esq. and J. Donald Swope Esq.

Though across the line in Carroll County, the trial of Solomon Sutler, colored, for the murder of William P. Brown on New Year's Day, holds scarcely less interest than the Sharrah case. To persons in and about Littlestown, as well as to the relatives and friends of the Brown family living in Gettysburg the case listed for trial at Westminster next week is of more concern than that which will occupy the attention of Adams County Court.

Brown, the murdered man, was widely known in the lower end of this county, and the horrible manner in which he met his death, the apparently successful escape of the guilty man, his subsequent arrest and confession in Cumberland, are all fresh in the minds of local people, and a quick trial with a prompt verdict is anticipated.

One of the interesting points in the case promises to be the effort to establish the sort of weapon used. It was first supposed that Sutler had killed his employer with the blunt side of an ax. When the negro was arrested, however, he said he had struck him with a large stone. Whether or not this is true or merely invented in an effort to prove that he did not intend the blow to be fatal will be developed, it is thought, at the trial next week.

An attorney has been appointed to represent Sutler, and State's Attorney Seabrook, well known in Gettysburg, has had special counsel appointed to assist in conducting the State's side of the case.

FOR NEW LINE

Residents of the County will Get Better Accommodations.

Improved service is promised subscribers of the Carroll Tract Telephone Company, operating through the local "United" exchange and accommodating the residents of Hamilton township beyond Orrtanna. A second line is to be constructed to take on properties of Jacob Moritz, Harvey Lewis, Charles T. Vance, and George C. Strong, together with some of the eighteen subscribers who are now on the original line. The poles have been cut for the new route and will soon be put in place.

BRIEF ILLNESS
TAKES MRS. COLE

Had Lived for Fifty Four Years in House to which she Went after her Marriage. Funeral on Wednesday Morning.

After an illness of only four days from uraemic poisoning with which she was stricken last Tuesday, Mrs. Francis Cole, for the past fifty four years a resident of Buchanan Valley, died at her home at four o'clock this morning. She was aged 74 years, 11 months and 20 days.

Mrs. Cole's maiden name was Mary Livers. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Livers and was born near the site now occupied by the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Mont Alto. After her marriage to Mr. Cole fifty four years ago she moved to the property in Buchanan Valley where she spent the remainder of her life and where she died this morning.

Mr. Cole's death occurred on March 21, 1907, and she leaves four sons and three daughters, John F. Cole, A. W. Cole, James C. Cole, Francis J. Cole, and Miss Edith Cole, all of Buchanan Valley; Mrs. Annie Beezer, of Seattle, Washington; Mrs. George F. Tate, of Altoona.

She also leaves two brothers and a sister, John Livers, of Grottoes, Virginia; Joseph Livers, of Kansas City, Missouri; and Mrs. Francis Sneeringer, of Bonneauville.

Funeral on Wednesday morning in St. Ignatius' church, Buchanan Valley, of which she was a member. Interment in the church cemetery.

MUST ACT SOON

Warning by State on York Almshouse Matter.

That the department of labor and industry of the state is prepared to refer to the attorney general the matter of York county's failure to comply with its directions in connection with the condemnation of the present almshouse, is strongly intimated in a letter received by John J. Landes, president of the board of poor directors, from Lew R. Palmer, chief of the bureau of inspection. Mr. Landes immediately conferred with his attorney, Vincent K. Keesey, to determine what course shall be taken. It is possible that the matter may come before the York county court in some form next Monday. The failure of the old board of directors of the poor to go about the purchase of a site, and the hitch or acceptance of plans made by B. F. Willis for a new almshouse, are features of the situation up to this time.

CANNOT GET KRAMER

George Stroh after Him for Hanover. It is Thought.

President Henninger, of the Chambersburg base ball club, got back the contract he sent to Arthur Kramer, the Freeland pitcher. He wants more money. New York State League clubs are after him and offer more than the Chambersburg contract called for. Kramer has the unusual record of not losing a game last season out of many pitched. He writes that a former manager of Chambersburg is trying to sign him up. This is taken to mean George Stroh, now signed to catch for Hanover again, and he is probably trying to get Kramer for that club.

FOR BETTER BOYS

Thefts May Result in Organizing Hanover Y. M. C. A.

Stirred by the numerous robberies during the last two years, committed by youths, a movement has been launched by Hanover citizens to secure a thoroughly equipped Young Men's Christian Association building. No definite steps have been taken, as yet, but a public meeting will probably follow a campaign of education in which the needs of an association will be fully brought out.

CURRENT MATTERS
BLOW UP NEW

Accounts Confirmed. Two Attorneys Appointed to Defend Oliver Sharrah. Cemetery Association Incorporated.

At a session of Court this morning a number of matters of current business were presented for disposition.

The account of the Citizens Trust Company and George W. Stallsmith, executors of the estate of Levi II Stallsmith, late of Gettysburg, was confirmed. It showed a balance of $1845.48. The account of George W. Stallsmith, executor of the estate of Mary E. Stallsmith, late of Gettysburg, was confirmed. It showed a balance of $220.12.

Ida M. Hart and C. Ralph Hart, executors of the estate of the late Henry M. Hart, of Butler township, filed their account showing a balance of $2920.30. It was confirmed.

The account of George W. Minter and J. C. Minter, administrators of the estate of Elizabeth A. Minter, late of Gettysburg, was confirmed, showing a balance of $4023.90.

Other accounts confirmed were the following: Christian Frey, administrator of the estate of George W. Lynn, late of Cumberland township; John M. Blocher, administrator of the estate of Henry Miller, late of Cumberland township; Frank C. Wright, executor of the estate of Sarah Shepherd, late of Fairfield. Upon petition J. A. Thomas was discharged as executor of the estate of Isaac C. Minter, late of Hamilton township.

Upon petition of Oliver Sharrah, defendant in the homicide case—listed for trial next week, George J. Benner Esq. and J. Donald Swope Esq. were appointed to represent him, Mr. Sharrah saying that he was without means for the defense of his case.

RURAL CHURCHES

Lutheran Board Decides to Plan Greater Work among Them.

The rural congregations, which have always been looked upon as the feeders as well as the sources for membership gains for the town and city churches, became one of the important topics for discussion at the meeting of the advisory council of the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension of the Evangelical Lutheran denomination in York Friday.

That a more thorough organization and a continued development of these congregations was a matter of high importance was shown in a number of the addresses at the afternoon meeting of the council. The discussion terminated with a decision to appoint a commission at the next meeting to devise ways and means of carrying on special work in this direction.

Then, too, it was shown that of the number of young men who enter the ministry from time to time, a big majority of them come from the rural homes and from the country churches. This fact had great weight during the discussion.

Shady, for $50.00.

DEFEATED BUCKNELL

Lewisburg Institution again Falls before Gettysburg Quintet.

For the third time in as many years Gettysburg administered a defeat to Bucknell's basket ball team on their own floor at Lewisburg Friday night. Since 1913 Bucknell has not been able to win from Gettysburg either at home or here. The score Friday night was, rather close for comfort, however, Gettysburg winning 21-22.

BLOW UP NEW MORMON CHURCH IN

Fulton County Resents Activities of Disciples of that Faith. Building Nearly Completed, now a Wreck.

Dynamiters early Friday morning blew up the Mormon church being constructed in Buck Valley, Fulton county, and escaped without leaving a trail. Bloodhounds were secured from Cumberland, but no trace of the fugitives could be secured.

The church has been in course of erection for some time and was nearing completion, being ready for the plasterers. The congregation has about forty members, all living in the vicinity of Buck Valley.

Elders of the church have been proselyting in the vicinity of McConnellsburg for several years and their activities have been opposed by members of other denominations, but no open break occurred.

The report of the explosion could be heard for several miles. The church was blown to pieces and is a total wreck. Pieces of it were blown a long distance from the church, denoting that the charge of dynamite was heavy.

DISASTROUS FIRE

House and Barn Burn on Cumberland County Farm.

A defective flue is said to have been the cause of a fire that destroyed the house and barn on the Vogel song farm in South Middleton township, Cumberland County, tenanted by Mr. Fulton. The family were about to sit down to the morning meal, when a member noticed that the barn was on fire, and on going outside the house, discovered that the upper portion of the house was also in flames. The indications were that the barn caught fire from the house, as a large number of sparks were seen flying in that direction.

Mr. Fulton and family turned their attention to saving what furniture they could, and succeeded in getting out the greater portion in the lower rooms, but very little from the upper ones, while at the barn several wagons, some farming implements, hay, grain, etc., were destroyed. The family succeeded in saving some of their clothing. The nearest neighbors live over a quarter of a mile away and when they arrived on the scene of the fire the building and contents were beyond the saving line.

The loss is estimated at several thousand dollars. Mr. Fulton carried some insurance on the furniture. Mr. Vogel's loss is said to have his belongings partially covered by insurance.

CONGREGATION TO VOTE

Young Minister under Consideration of Reformed Church.

At the morning service in Trinity Reformed church on Sunday the congregation will ballot on Paul R. Pontius for pastor. Mr. Pontius occupied the pulpit of the church several weeks ago and made an excellent impression so that the vote is expected to result favorably.

Mr. Pontius is a graduate of Franklin and Marshall College and the Theological Seminary at Lancaster. While at the former institution he was very active in athletics, being a member of both the base ball and foot ball teams. At the present time he is taking post-graduate studies at the Union Theological Seminary, New York, intending to finish that work in May.

Mr. Pontius is regarded as a young man of exceptional mental attainments, strong personality, and a very promising minister. His father is a Reformed church clergyman, located at Berke.

IMPROVEMENTS

Replace Machine that Made Hundred Million Bricks.

Alvord Brothers have suspended operations at their brick plant at Elysburg for several weeks in order to make some repairs. They will install a new high speed machine, and old Martin brick making machine with a new one manufactured by the Alvord Creager Company, Cincinnati. With the old brick machine, one has died million brick were manufactured.

TWO WEEKS' REST
IN LICENSE COURT

After which Applicant may Present Testimony to Refute Charges Made by Witnesses of Last Few Days.

Jacob Hess, the detective whose testimony had been awaited ever since the beginning of the hearing of the Hotel Washington remonstrance, was called late Friday afternoon, and testified that he saw George Oyer and John Waddle buy drinks at the hotel when they were visibly under the influence. At one time, the witness said, he saw Klinefelter pour out liquor for Oyer who was in such a condition that he could not do it himself. On one occasion when he was at the hotel Detective Hess said he saw five or six men, pretty well intoxicated, buy drinks.

George Hughes, special night policeman, said that he had seen Klinefelter so much intoxicated at the hotel that he staggered. This was the only witness to bring testimony against the applicant's sobriety.

Hugh Clemens, a new resident in the county, said that he, while visibly intoxicated, had bought drinks at the Washington Hotel.

A number of other witnesses were called during the afternoon.

At the close of the afternoon session the hearing was continued to February 7, when it will be resumed, Attorney Hersh being given an opportunity then to produce witnesses to refute the charges brought out by witnesses for the remonstrants.

AT GRAEFFENBURG

Old Alto Forges were Busy Scenes in Time Long Gone.

Miss Mary H. Withers, among the last of the family now living on Graeffenburg Hills, has a letter of interest and pleasing reminiscence written by her father, John Withers, when he went to take charge of the Mont Alto furnace in Quincy township, in December, 1843, then known as "Mont Alto Forges."

When Mr. Withers went there as manager Holker Hughes was in immediate charge, the father then being a practicing lawyer in Hanoverstown. Eight of the Hughes family then survived. Under the management of Holker Hughes at that time the furnace was making about twenty five tons of iron a week which was run into castings and a supply of pig for the furnace. Those days were busy ones at "the Forges." There were then in operation the furnace and rolling mill, four forges and saw mill, employing in all about fifty hands. At the foundry hollowware and stoves were built and hauled by wagons to Baltimore. The iron was conveyed by wagons to the Potomac river at Williamsport, Md., and thence taken by boats to market.

John Withers, who became the new manager for the Hughes' at Mont Alto in 1843, had learned the iron manufacturing business at the Mt. Eden and Conowingo furnaces, then owned by his father, in Lancaster county. The famous Conowingo iron ore mines now owned by the Colemans of Lebanon, were opened about 1808 by the Withers family. In 1812 the elder Withers was offered by Brinn, then known as Cornwall's iron king, for these mines and adjacent operations $150,000.

The last remnant of the family, as has been previously stated, is now at Graeffenburg Inn.

CARNEGIE MEDALS ARE AWARDED TO SEVENTEEN BY HERO COMMISSION

Nine of Those Honored Lost Their Lives in Efforts to Save Others Who at the Time Were in Distress.

Widows of Men Killed Are Awarded $35 a Month For Life or Until They Remarry—Each Child $5 a Month.

At the twelfth annual meeting of the Carnegie hero fund commission at Pittsburgh, seventeen acts of heroism were recognized. Four silver and thirteen bronze medals were awarded.

Nine of the heroes lost their lives, and to the dependents of four of these pensions aggregating $1,920 a year were granted. To the dependents of four of the others who lost their lives sums totaling $3,000 were granted, to be applied in various ways, subject to the direction of the commission.

In addition to these money grants, in one case the sum of $25,000 was appropriated for educational purposes, and in six cases awards aggregating $1,500 were made for other purposes. Payments in these cases will not be made until the beneficiaries' plans for the use of the awards have been approved by the commission.

The statement of the cases of heroism as given by the commission follows in part:

J. Lamar McCann of Tuscaloosa, Ala., was awarded a bronze medal. McCann, aged twenty-three, a student, saved Mary T. Hunter, aged twenty-four, and attempted to save Rex E. Partin, aged thirty-four, from drowning in the Alabama river, Jan. 3, 1915. Partin and Miss Hunter fell from their canoe into the icy waters of the river. McCann, who was not a good swimmer, and pulled them beneath the surface. McCann, who was near in another canoe with a young woman, dived and swam about five feet to Partin's canoe. His companion used a stick and slowly paddled to the bank for help. McCann saw the end of Partin's canoe between Partin and Miss Hunter, and then grasped it. McCann supported Miss Hunter by reaching over the canoe and grasping her arms. Partin seemed to be dazed, and McCann helped him to climb up on the canoe, and each time it went beneath the surface. He disappeared after the second attempt and was drowned. After being in the water about fifteen minutes, McCann and Miss Hunter were taken to the bank by a man who came to the rescue in a boat. They had drifted until they were 150 feet above the overflow of the dam where the drop was twenty feet. McCann wanted to remain in the water and dive for Partin. Miss Hunter was unconscious, but she was revived.

Tried to Save Man in Well.

Fred G. Buskohl of Friend, Ore., was awarded a bronze medal. Buskohl, aged forty-one, a farmer, attempted to save Joseph L. Parke, aged fifty-eight, a farmer, from suffocation at Friend on Aug. 3, 1912. Parke was overcome by a gas from a well. Buskohl, who was somewhat weak from a recent operation, responded to the calls of Parke's helper and, against the helper's protest, insisted upon descending. He was lowered with his foot in a loop in the well rope, and, although dizzy from the fumes, he grasped Parke and called to be raised. When the windlass had been turned only a few times, Buskohl fell unconscious to the bottom. He was removed fifteen minutes later, but remained unconscious for two days and was disabled for more than five months. Parke died as he was taken from the well.

At the Hall of Ira, S. C., was awarded a bronze medal. Hall, aged twenty-four, a farmer, saved Edward Harris, aged twenty-eight, a well digger, from suffocation at Ira on Aug. 9, 1910.

John P. Burn of Atlanta, Ga., was awarded a bronze medal. Burn, aged thirty-six, an engraver, saved Isaac Janke, aged three, from drowning on May 12, 1912. Isaac fell through the opening in the street curb into a chamber which came entrance to the shaft of a sewer. From the chamber Isaac slid over into the shaft and fell to the bottom of the sewer, which was nine feet below the street level. Burn, who knew nothing about the sewer, entered, crawled over into the shaft and descended. He found Isaac and got a bearing on the left and sides of the sewer and followed the course of the water line to where he found Isaac. He was not seriously injured.

Saved In the Atlantic.

William S. Turner of Seaside Park, N. J., was awarded a bronze medal. Turner saved George S. Lewis from drowning at Atlantic, N. J., on Aug. 12, 1914. Lewis and Turner swam in the Atlantic ocean to a point 200 feet from shore and then Lewis became distressed in deep water. Turner swam to Lewis and tried to pull him shoreward, but Lewis turned and grasped him at the shoulders with both hands. Lewis pushed Turner beneath the surface, and then Turner shook himself free. Turner tried to swim toward shore with Lewis, but because of an undertow made an attempt to turn back and called to her on shore to come out with a rope. Lewis was very weak. Turner left him and swam hard for a distance of about 125 feet and then waded to shore. He was frightened by Lewis' condition and was weak from his exertions, and his legs trembled as he waded. He ran 550 feet, got a buoy and returned to the water. He asked a man to go out for Lewis and explained that he was so tired that he did not know whether he could undertake the rescue or not. The man would not go. Persons on shore held the end of a rope that was attached to the buoy, and Turner hung the buoy on his back by means of a loop of rope. He waded 175 feet and swam 150 feet to Lewis, who was nearly to collapse when Turner reached him. Lewis grasped a loop of rope on the buoy, and Turner held him with one arm while holding to the buoy with one hand. Both were pulled to shallow water and helped to shore. Lewis was unconscious, and Turner was exhausted.

The widow of Arthur H. Pingree of Norwood, Mass., was awarded a bronze medal. Pingree, a clergyman, died attempting to save Helen L. Marston, aged fifteen, and Helen M. Perkins, aged fifteen, from drowning at Annisquam, Mass., on July 19. The two girls ventured out and became distressed at 125 feet. The man allowed Miss Marston to hold to his shoulder while he drew Miss Perkins to the surface. She seized him around the neck, causing him to sink, and all three were borne off by the current. Miss Marston remained at the surface by paddling and was later rescued. Miss Perkins was drowned. Pingree was recovered unconscious, but efforts to revive him were fruitless.

Heroic Attempt Fails.

The mother of Thomas McGrady of Fredonia, Kan., was given a bronze medal. McGrady died assisting in an attempt to save Robert M. Oliver and Edward J. Hetzel from drowning at Pittsburgh on Jan. 12, 1915. Oliver and Hetzel were rowing on the Monongahela river. Their boat was swept against the upper end of a fleet of anchored barges. McGrady, who had lost one leg, and another man entered a yawl and rowed more than 700 feet to the scene. Oliver stepped into their boat and sat down. McGrady and his companion then rowed hard and reached a point thirty feet upstream from the boat. They lost control of the boat, and the current then swept it broadside against the barges. All three men were drowned.

The father of William F. Niehaus, Jr., deceased, of Evansville, Ind., was awarded a bronze medal. Niehaus died assisting in the attempt to save Robert M. Oliver and Edward J. Hetzel. Niehaus accompanied McGrady to the rescue and lost his life.

The widow of Horace M. Parham of Austell, Ga., was awarded a bronze medal and $40 a month for support during her life or until she remarries. Parham, a farmer, died attempting to save Thomas Johnson from suffocation at Mableton, Ga., on Aug. 10, 1914. Johnson was overcome by noxious gases in a well thirty-five feet deep.

Henry H. Rogers of Austell, Ga., was awarded a bronze medal. Rogers saved Johnson in the accident in which Parham lost his life.

William Pratt of Austell, Ga., was also awarded a bronze medal for attempting to save Parham.

The widow of Andrew J. Atkinson of Ventnor, Va., was awarded a bronze medal and $25 a month for support during her life or until she remarries, with $5 a month additional for her daughter until she reaches the age of sixteen. Atkinson died attempting to save William S. Johnson, aged twelve, from drowning at Glenmont, Va., on Aug. 4, 1915.

The widow of C. Gilbert Danner of Fort Worth, Tex., was awarded a bronze medal and $20 a month for life or until she remarries. Danner died attempting to save Peter T. Skidmore from an electric shock at Fort Worth, Tex., June 6, 1915.

The father of Melvin Hagen, deceased, of Canby, Ore., was awarded a silver medal. Hagen, aged eighteen, died attempting to save Alma E. Summerville, aged sixteen, from being run over by a train at Canby, Ore., on Jan. 7, 1914.

Harold W. Snow of Chicago was awarded a silver medal. Snow attempted to save Nellie Meredith, aged seventy-three, from being killed by a train at Jackson, Miss., on April 28, 1912.

The father of Lawrence Ryne, deceased, of Philadelphia, was awarded a silver medal. Ryne, aged eleven, died attempting to save William S. West, aged twelve, from drowning on Mar. 21, 1915.

The widow of William D. Bard, Sr., of Little Rock, Ark., was awarded a silver medal and $25 a month for support during her life or until she remarries, with $5 a month additional for each of three children until they reach the age of sixteen. Bard, aged sixty, died attempting to save his wife and three children from drowning at Little Rock, Ark., on July 11, 1915.

WOULD TAX ALL OUR EXPATRIATES

Kenyon Introduces Measure Proposing Big Increase.

MIGHT REACH 30 PER CENT.

All Property They Own in America Would Be Made to Pay Heavily. Tax on Dowers to American Girls Who Marry Foreigners Is Included in the Measure.

A measure proposing a high graduated tax on the incomes of American expatriates derived from their American property has been introduced in the senate by Senator Kenyon of Iowa.

The Kenyon bill would place an annual tax of practically 30 per cent on the incomes of the wealthier expatriates. It also would make the dowers given to American girls who marry titled foreigners a source of considerable revenue to the United States government.

Under its provisions a normal tax of 2 per cent instead of the existing 1 per cent on American incomes would be levied on the incomes under $25,000 of all expatriates and foreigners derived from their investments in the United States.

Provides Supertax Too.

Income	Per cent
$25,000 to $50,000	4
50,000 to 75,000	8
75,000 to 100,000	12
100,000 to 250,000	15

Under the terms of the Kenyon law William Waldorf Astor, now Lord Astor of Hever, wealthiest of all American expatriates, would be compelled to pay to the United States government each year 28 per cent of his entire income derived from investments in this country.

At the present time Lord Astor pays only a tax of 7 per cent. It is estimated that the tax on the Astor fortune alone would net the government upward of $5,000,000 annually.

Affects Many Expatriates.

Other expatriated Americans who would pay a tax ranging from 11 to 28 per cent of their incomes derived from properties in this country would be: Duchess of Roxburghe, daughter of Ogden Goelet.

Mrs. William B. Leeds.

Countess of Craven, daughter of Bradley Martin.

Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Consuelo Vanderbilt.

Countess of Granard, daughter of Ogden Mills.

Viscountess Maidstone, daughter of Anthony J. Drexel.

Countess of Ancaster, formerly Eloise Breese.

Princess Cantacuzene, Julia, granddaughter of General Grant.

Princess Radziwill, Dorothy Deacon of Boston.

Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain, Mary Endicott of Massachusetts.

Princess Hatzfeldt, Clara Huntington of San Francisco.

Princess Colonna, Eva Mackay of New York.

Lady Camros, Mildred Sherman of New York.

Countess Szechenyi, Gladys Vanderbilt.

Baroness Ramsey, Frances Whitehouse of Chicago.

Lady Davies, daughter of George J. Gould.

The exact amount of property owned by the above is not known to any one in the United States. In the following table, however, the amount of the fortune controlled by the expatriated American girls at the time of marriage or given to them as dowries is set forth:

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Weikert's Anniversary Celebrated by her Friends.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Weikert, on Steinwehr avenue, in honor of Mrs. Weikert's birthday. Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. Weikert, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shryock, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Luckenbaugh, Mr. and Mrs. George Heagey, Mrs. Bushman, Mrs. Frazer, Mrs. Dougherty, Mrs. Plank, Miss Rosa Young, Miss Elizabeth Bushman, Miss Addie Sachs, Miss Bertha Frazer, Miss Ada Frazer, Miss Clara Hess, Miss Belle Miller, Miss Treva Weikert, Miss Elsie Shryock, Miss Kathryn Mumper, Sarah Black, Ruth Heagey, Margaret Weikert, Kathryn Weikert, Helen Heagey, Hilda Weikert, Mary Luckenbaugh, Helena Luckenbaugh, Wilbur Weikert, Curtis Plank, Jacob Weikert, William Plank, Ralph Shryock.

Adulterated Bread.

Whole meal bread or brown bread is supposed to contain the whole grain of wheat, kernel, germ and bran. It requires greater mastication and has the advantage of retaining much that is lost to white bread. There is no other article of food which lends itself better to adulteration than bread and nothing which is more adulterated. Potatoes, alum, "bleachers" and other things best not known, all form part of "our daily bread."

Statesman Beaten at Checkers.

Everyone will be glad to know that in the winter of 1852, a few weeks before General Franklin Pierce was nominated for the presidency, he was soundly drubbed at checkers by Judge Folsom of New Hampshire, a suggestion worth noting by politicians who dream of the joys of life in a certain Washington structure.—Springfield Republican.

Discipline for the Mind.

Accustom yourself to submit on every occasion to a small present evil, to obtain a greater distant good. This will give decision, tone and energy to the mind, which, thus disciplined, will often reap victory from defeat, and honor from repulse.—Colton.

FIVE LYNCHED BY MOB IN GEORGIA

Night Riders Hang Negroes From One Tree.

FOUR WERE OF ONE FAMILY

They Entered Jail by Ruse, Kept the Keeper in Bathroom and Seized Murder Suspects.

Albany, Ga., Jan. 22.—Five negroes taken from the Worth county jail at Sylvester, were hanged to one limb of a tree on the outskirts of Starkville. The bodies, containing many bullet holes, were cold when found.

Forty or fifty men, acting with precision indicative of carefully laid plans, took the five negroes from the jail and sped away in automobiles. The negroes were being held in connection with the killing of Sheriff Moreland, of Lee county, during the Christmas holidays. Starkville is a hamlet three miles from Leesburg, the county seat of Lee county.

Cutting all wires leading north from Sylvester was included in the plans of the party. For that reason the fate of the negroes was not definitely known until hours after they had been lynched.

At about ten o'clock at night Sheriff L. A. Potts and his jailer at Sylvester were awakened by several men, who announced that they had captured a negro and wanted to place him in jail. So well executed were the plans that the sheriff saw only three of the men he said.

"The first I knew anything was wrong was when one of the men who had brought the negro to the door pointed a pistol at me and told me to get into a bathroom. They had told me they wanted to keep the prisoner in jail at least over night," he said.

"I was at their mercy, and, of course, complied with their demands to give them my keys. The men were not masked. There was no lock on the bathroom door, and two remained with me, keeping me covered. After a few minutes, I heard a whistle, and then footsteps, as if many men were entering the jail.

"In a little while the whistle was blown again and my two captors left me and ran out of the jail. Then I heard several motor cars going north at a rapid rate of speed. I had never seen the men who first came to the door, but I would know them if I saw them again."

"The bodies were found by Lee county citizens, who were out on the roads early, apparently under the impression that if any of the negroes were taken from the jail they would be taken to Lee county, where Sheriff Moreland was popular. Going out from Starkville, a short distance, they encountered the men on a tree at the side of the road. Apparently they had been strung up and then became targets for the men who had taken them from jail.

"Before the bodies were cut down they were viewed by many persons. Some reports say hundreds were attracted to the place. The bodies were being held for a coroner's inquest, for which a jury had been empaneled.

Four of the victims were of one family—Felix Lake and his three sons Frank, Dewey and Major. The fifth was Rodius Seamore. James Keith, a negro, was the prisoner most wanted by the lynchers, but Sheriff Potts had taken the precaution to remove him several days ago to some other jail the location of which he has not divulged.

Moreland was killed at the home of Felix Lake, when he went there to arrest a negro. It was reported that more than one of those in the house shot him and all were arrested later.

Fire at Houston Hall.
Philadelphia, Jan. 22.—Books, files, records, papers and a number of the first scientific moving picture film ever made, valued in all at more than $40,000, were endangered when flames damaged Houston hall, the students club at the University of Pennsylvania.

Bill Aims at Improper Films.
Washington, Jan. 22.—Interstate shipment of improper motion picture films would be made a penal offense by a bill introduced by Representative Townner, of Iowa. Motion picture in theaters, which oppose the pending censorship bill, indorse the Townner bill.

Drank Whisky Ninety-Two Years.
Pittsburg, Jan. 22.—Julius Levy, 113 years old, is dead. He took one drink of whisky every day for the past ninety-two years. He was born in Poland and was married in Russia ninety-two years ago.

Elevator Kills Soldier.
Sayre, Pa., Jan. 22.—When his shoe caught in a coal elevator, an Army Jorgenski, twenty-two years old, was ground to pieces. He was planning to return to Russia to join the army.

Tossed in Air by Bull.
Hagerstown, Md., Jan. 22.—Eugene Hagerholder, of near Lovettville, was tossed high in the air and then trampled by an infuriated bull while watching men harvesting ice from a pond. He was seriously injured.

"Do you mail your poems or take them to the editors yourself?" "I mail them. Rejection is bad enough without running the risk of rejection." — Editorial

NAMES JEWISH RELIEF DAY

Governor Brumbaugh Calls on People to Aid War Sufferers.

Harrisburg, Jan. 22.—Governor Brumbaugh issued a proclamation to the people of Pennsylvania calling upon them to set aside next Thursday, January 27, as a day on which to make donations for the relief of Hebrews in the various countries at war.

The governor paid a tribute to the Jewish people, and urged that the document be read in the churches of the state on Sunday, and that wherever possible local committees take charge of the collection of contributions.

GREEK KING REJECTS ENTENTE ULTIMATUM

The Allies' Demands Still Lack Confirmation.

London, Jan. 22.—It is reported from German sources that King Constantine has rejected the ultimatum of the allies demanding dismissal within forty-eight hours of the diplomatic ministers of the central powers from Athens.

So far as has not been admitted by the British, French or Russian governments, that an ultimatum was sent to Athens. News of the receipt of the ultimatum and of the reported rejection came from Berlin.

Although the Montenegrin, following their rejection of the peace terms of Austria, are putting up a gallant fight, they have been compelled to retreat before superior forces and are falling back upon Scutari to join forces with Essad Pasha.

A Bucharest despatch says that the belief is strong there that King Constantine is helpless and that he could not help the German allies now, even if such a course should be decided upon.

TOO MANY ASK MERCY

Pardon Board Rebukes Applicants for Clemency.

Harrisburg, Jan. 22.—Intimation that too many applications for clemency for persons convicted of taking human life are being made to the state board of pardons was given by Lieutenant Governor McClain, chairman of the board.

The board had eight applications involving homicide of various degrees. When the plea for pardon of Frank P. Smith, Northampton county, serving twenty years for murder, was reached, Mr. McClain said "Murder is becoming too popular and there is too much sentiment mixed in these applications. We must act to protect society."

Among cases listed were those of George Lee, Philadelphia, granted commutation in 1911, and the applications for rehearing of Roland S. Pennington and George March, Delaware, refused recommendation for commutation a few months ago. The application for rehearing of James Reilly, Philadelphia, refused commutation was continued.

SAVE FERTILIZER ELEMENTS.

Ingredients Existing in the Soil Should Be Utilized and Developed.

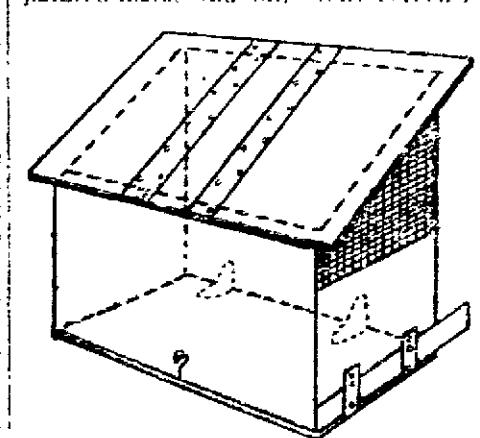

In the unusual conditions existing in the fertilizer trade, says a statement just issued by the secretary of agriculture, it is important that all fertilizing materials on the farm, especially those containing potash, should be conserved. The fertilizer ingredients already existing in the soil should be utilized and developed to the fullest extent. A great deal can be accomplished in this direction by deep plowing, constant cultivation and thorough tillage. There should be a proper system of rotation. Especially where one crop has been grown for several years a different one should be planted this year. Green manures and cover crops should be used as much as possible in their proper rotation.

Of the organic substances manure, both solid and liquid, is the most important and should be utilized whenever possible. All material of an organic nature, such as leaves and bedding of various sorts, should be composted and the compost applied to the soil. Special attention should be given also to the conservation of wood ashes. Depending on the character of the wood, they contain potash in quantities varying ordinarily from 3 to 10 per cent. All tree trimmings, brush cuttings, etc., should be burned and the ashes derived therefrom utilized.

The application of lime to many soils is of undoubted benefit. Though the availability of the fertilizing elements in the soil may not be greatly increased by its use, the resulting improvement in physical and bacterial conditions may increase considerably the productivity of the soil.

A Screen Coop.

This drawing shows the plan of chicken coop we designed and have been using the last ten years. The coops are made in the winter time when the men are not busy with other work. They are made of twelve and six inch soft pine boards. They are twenty-three inches long, eighteen inches wide, eight inches high in front and a foot high at the back. The roof extends over the side walls about three inches on all sides. The floors are hinged on, as shown, and the coops are put in the ends, as shown, to provide ventilation. The little slide door permits chicks to come and go. The material in each coop costs about $1. We use the coops from year to year, as they are cleaned out every fall and put away in a dry place during the winter. I have never yet lost a chicken in these coops, either by drowning, smothering or through having some animal get in—Mrs. S. M. Gephart in Farmer's Mail and Breeze.

Value of Oats.
When oats are no more expensive than corn, pound for pound, wise poultrymen will feed a fair proportion of this vigorous building food. Oats put quality into the muscle and nerve tissue of horse and man.

Biggest Guns Used in 1895.
Some of the guns used in 1892 at the bombardment of Alexandria, Egypt were of sixteen inch bore, an inch larger than the biggest British naval cannon of today, while four years later that navy had guns of 16.25 inches caliber.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

MIDWEEK MENU.

WEDNESDAY—BEEF STEAK, Grapes, Cauliflower, Griddle-cakes, With Sausage, Coffee.

LUNCHEON, Sardines, Potatoes, Popovers, Baked Apples, Tea.

Winter Desserts.

CHOCOLATE CREAM PIE.—One pint milk, one-half cupful butter and a pinch of salt. Put on to boil. Add one-half cupful grated chocolate, one-half cupful sugar well mixed with one-quarter cupful sifted flour. Cook until smooth. Flavor with vanilla and bake in bottom crust. When baked and ready for table cover with sweetened whipped cream. Use a good sized pie plate.

Connecticut Apple Pie. Make puff paste as usual. Cut apples in irregular pieces, not trying to keep them even in size, as shaped all alike and of equal size tends to make the fruit settle together too closely. After covering plate with bottom crust, put plate with cut apples, but do not sweeten or add any flavoring. Put on top crust, but do not fasten down very firmly on edges. Bake until of a nice even color. Remove pie from oven, take off top crust carefully without breaking and put in the sweetening, one-half cupful of sugar, a little bit of butter, cinnamon or grated lemon peel to taste. Put on top crust again and serve.

Marble Pie.—To one pint sifted and strained cooked apples add four eggs, two-thirds cupful rich milk, a small piece of butter, one pound of cracker, juice and rind of a large lemon and a little nutmeg. Add sugar to taste. Bake in lower crust only.

Lemon Pie.—Grate rind of one lemon for spice. Press out juice and add to it one cupful powdered sugar, yolks of two eggs and one whole egg, one teaspoonful cornstarch, scalded in one-half cupful milk. Line a deep plate with pastry and pour in the mixture. Bake like custard pie. While pie is baking, beat whites of two eggs with three tablespoonfuls confectioner's sugar. When pie is baked, pour on frosting or meringue, return to oven and brown slightly.

Apples a la Pottigasse.—Eight cooking apples, one-half pint of water, six ounces of sugar, a little apple marmalade and preserved cherries.

Facts Versus Fallacies

HERE IS a letter from Judge D. E. Bryant, of the U. S. Court, on the subject of local option. It is candid, thoughtful and well worth the reading:

"DEAR SIR—Your favor relative to the prohibition election which takes place in Grayson county, and asking my views relative to the same, has been received.

"THIS IS a business question of moment to our people, and being a citizen to be affected by said election, I feel that I have the right to express my ideas on it. I will not attempt in this letter to discuss the wisdom or folly of sumptuary laws. I grant freely that those advocating prohibition think it best for the people. If this is true in fact it should become a law; if it is untrue it should be defeated. Theory is one thing, but actual observation and experience are better. When prohibition was submitted to a vote of the people of Texas, I voted for it in good faith. I have faithfully endeavored to enforce prohibition laws of the United States prevailing in the Indian Territory in my jurisdiction. I have had the assistance of competent and faithful district attorneys and marshals, excellent grand and petit juries, in fact, everything that could be desired to make the law effective. If it could be made so. My experience has taught me that it is folly to believe for a moment that it can be successfully prohibited. It leads to all manner of evasions, even to perjury and other crimes of perjury. It builds up feuds locally, which frequently result in personal conflicts, and in some instances murder is the result.

"NOTWITHSTANDING the rigid prosecution of the traffic it is unabated; in fact, if any difference, increases. Feuds exist in each neighborhood, growing out of prosecutions for violations of the prohibitory law. Perjury becomes common and the other offenses heretofore mentioned are only incidents connected with this question. The evil is not repressed in the slightest degree, and the other evils above named are inflicted upon society in addition thereto. It may be said that this is peculiar to the Indian country. I think not. It is due solely to the fact that the people regard it as a matter of taste as to what they eat and drink, and human nature is the same everywhere under similar conditions.

"MY EXPERIENCE is that prohibitory laws do not prohibit; that they do no good, but to the contrary they are extremely harmful. There is but one answer to this, and it is that you cannot legislate successfully upon what men regard as a matter of taste. When legislation trenches upon taste the citizen will violate the law with impunity, and in so doing he does not regard himself as a criminal.

"WHEREVER local option exists you will find lawless persons who will sell to any and everybody wherever they can, not respecting minority or other conditions. The courts will be flooded with prosecutions, and there will be but few convictions and the expense will be very large.

"UNDER the license system, where the man who sells is under bond, young men under age will be protected, not entirely, but to a great extent; but when local option carries every evasion and subterfuge will be resorted to, and where the party is pursuing an illegal business, and for money, he will sell to minors and all others alike without the responsibility of a solvent bond, by which he could be forced to answer in damages.

"I HAVE the greatest respect for the opinion of all people on this question, whether they think as I do or otherwise, but this is a matter of moment to our people, and I simply state the above facts as my opinion, based upon my observation of this question, even when backed by the United States, which every one knows is more feared by the law-breaker than the local law. Yours very truly,
"D. E. BRYANT" (Judge U. S. Court).

THUS once more it is shown, this time by the word of a Judge of the United States Court, that to say Prohibition prohibits is a FALLACY; but that it prevents the legalized and regulated sale of liquor is a FACT.

A Word to Retailers

This is the age of standardization. Products of quality are sold under brands and as they are made in large quantities they are sold at low prices. People prefer them because they are standards of value. When these brands are newspaper advertised a demand is created among your possible customers. It is good business to attract the newspaper readers to your store. This you can do by showing the goods in your window at the time they are being advertised in the newspaper.

COTTON IS KING

The great thing in most January Sales is COTTON. The very much higher prices on Raw Cotton, with a still upward price tendency, brings into greater importance and prominence the advantages of our January Sale of cottons, and we can positively assure you that not in months to come will prices be as low as they are now, and we confidently advise you to buy all the Cotton goods you require for some time to come. We stocked heavily months ago at old prices, foreseeing the advances that were bound to come.

Muslin Underwear

We are showing now a stock of good new style, clean made Muslin Underwear, at prices from 15 to 20 per cent. less than for similar goods if ordered now. It will pay to buy for a season's needs.

Should you desire to make up Underwear at home we can furnish you the right materials at a saving, for the reason that we placed large orders months ago at July prices.

Long Cloths Muslins Cambrics &c. Nainsooks

White Counter Panes from 75c to $5.00.

From orders placed at the time of the Mill clean up, we are now offering 150 Counterpanes of All Sizes, Crochet, Satin Finish, Marseilles &c., Square and Cut Corners, at prices which positively better those we gave in early Fall. While this lot lasts, no advance.

Sheets and Pillow Cases Bed Muslins by the Yard.

We are glad to be able to say that we are in a position to furnish all widths of Sheeting and Pillow Muslins, all sizes of Sheets and Pillow Cases, either made up or by the yard at old prices. A number of grades in every width.

New Gingham in Spring Patterns

50 Pieces 32 in. Renfrew Gingham, New Plaids, Checks and Stripes, sun and tub proof at 12 1-2 cents. (price should be 15 cents.) 50 pieces Bates Seersucker Gingham 12c. 60 Pcs. Assorted makes at 8 & 10 cts. A Gingham costs a little more than Calico but wears twice as long.

Fast Color Devonshire Cloths Galateas and many others Percales.

These wonderfully sturdy weaves for use for boys and girls of any age, as well for grown ups, are here in full assortments and at old prices, and in some instances at less than the makers advertised prices. Yard wide Percales at 9 & 12 1-2 cts.

White Linens

Belgian and Irish Linen Weaves in which we overbought last Spring. A saving of a fourth over this year's prices.

White Sheer Cottons For Dresses and Waists

A White year, or season is expected and the makers have outdone themselves in originating designs and weaves. Our orders are much in excess of any previous year for January, and as the scarcity has prevented us showing our completed purchase now, they are straggling in and even at that we are now showing more patterns and weaves than we have ever been able to show before.

White Waists $1.00, 1.19, 1.50 to 2.50

Many of our November and December purchases for February and March deliveries are now in stock in advance of original desires. Styles are the very newest and values are exceptional. We are quite sure that at no time later will we be able to duplicate these prices.

The Unexpected in Table Damasks and Napkins all at Old Prices.

A delayed import has brought us 10 pieces of Damasks and 80 dozen Napkins to match, identically the old quality that we always sold at $1.00, $1.25 & $1.50 per yard, in the best of patterns. This cannot happen again until flax raising and linen weaving gets back to normal.

Aunt Sally's Bike

By M. QUAD
Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Things in and around the village of Poolsville had got into perilous state. Not a tin peddler had entered the town for six weeks, and half the pans and coffee-pots were leaking. Business was so quiet that an order for a whole gallon of molasses was almost town's talk.

One of the inhabitants of Poolsville was Aunt Sarah Tooker. She was widowed six years before and lived with her daughter. Aunt Sally had always been a hustler, and when a dull time came to Poolsville she had always been ready to bestir herself to end it. She was ready to help and this. She went to Deacon Thatcher and indignantly asked:

"Are you men going to let this town fall into its mudhole and give a last gasp?"

"Why, Aunt Sally, what can be done?" he asked in reply. "We are in a rut here, and we've got to stay in it until Providence boosts us out of it."

Aunt Sally went home to say to her daughter:

"Hanner, I am going over to Guilford to see sister Kate for two weeks. It was in the early days of the bike. The machine had been adopted in almost every other town around, but Poolsville frowned upon it."

Aunt Sally Tooker knew just how the bike was regarded in her home town, and she knew that she was sixty years old and was expected to set a good example for the younger folks. Nevertheless, she had only reached Guilford, when she said to her sister:

"Sister Kate, have they bikes for sale in Guilford?"

"Why, of course," was the reply. "Then get on your bonnet and go with me to buy one."

"For a nephew?"

"No, sir, for yours truly. Aunt Sally Tooker: I have come over here to learn to ride the bike, and I can't get at it a minute too soon."

"But you are not going to ride the bike in Poolsville!" gasped the sister. "Why, they will mob you over there!"

"Let them mob and be damned. That's where I'm going to ride the bike. The old town is in a rut, and I'm going to wake her up."

In a week she could ride up a hill and down, and when the time she had given herself to remain in Guilford had expired she started for Poolsville on her bike.

The highway leading out of and into Poolsville is a hill with a gentle slope half a mile long, and it was the hour of noon one day when Aunt Sally Tooker reached the brow of this hill. There she rested and looked down upon the village. It seemed asleep.

It was after Aunt Sally had surveyed this peaceful scene for five minutes that she uttered three or four long drawn screams and mounted her bike and started down the hill. Though her screams aroused the town as the report of a cannon would, all of a sudden people appeared at their doors and their gates and exclaimed to each other:

"What in heaven's name is that? Has the judgment day come at last?"

It hadn't, but Aunt Sally Tooker and her bike had.

She was coming down that long grade, holding her bike steady with one hand and waving her bonnet with the other. She went through that village like a cannon ball.

At the farthest outskirts of the village Aunt Sally turned about and came whizzing back to dismount in front of the post-office, where the crowd was thickest.

"Now, ma, you have done it!" was the greeting of her daughter as she entered the house.

"Yes, I have woke up Poolsville, and you are going to see things hum," was the proud reply.

It wasn't an hour later before the "hum" was heard and seen. The minister of Aunt Sally's church appeared to ask:

"Sister, is that your bike?"

"I paid $5 for it, parson."

"And are you going to ride it in Poolsville?"

"Morning, noon and night and sometimes in the afternoon."

"Then, sister, you must take the consequences."

"I will, parson."

The consequences were that charges were preferred against Aunt Sally. The charges against Aunt Sally were for riding a bike in the public streets and thereby injuring the cause of religion in five minutes her lawyer tore these charges to shreds. In five more those who made them were made ashamed of themselves. You can judge of this line of argument.

Aunt Sally was very properly acquitted. For a few weeks most of the members of the church turned a cold shoulder upon her and the neighbors kept aloof, but she went on riding her bike until soon Deacon Thatcher said to the crowd at the post-office one evening:

"Now we have got to let up on her. When you come right down to it she has as much right to ride a bike as we have a horse, and you can't say she can't do it a damned sight more modestly. We all know she's woke up Poolsville and we are getting the benefit of it. So let us stop this nonsense."

And the nuisance was stopped, and Aunt Sally continued to ride toward the meeting house.
